Please give a real life example of a person (do not name them) who is successful. Please say what you think is successful about them.

Ugnė Balkutė	From my point of view, the successful person is the one who have will and strength to wake up early in the morning and work all day. Also, he is determined to stay up all night and read about all the things he is passionate about. He has his priorities straight and he never turns his back on them, that is how I understand successful.
Kamilė Barauskaitė	I think you are successful, if after achieving your goals, you become others authority. People want to ask you advice, they believe in you and they trust you. That means you did something right and used your opportunities.
Justas Jakutis	This person is like my best friend and also a role model to me. In my opinion he is a successful person because he has a loving family, a home to grow old in and an enjoyable job. He knows that failing isn't a problem, because he is willing to fail in order to succeed. He is willing to learn from each failure, as it will help him make better decisions in life and future success. That makes him a successful person, who I admire the most.
Andrius Jonas Kulikauskas	I know a man who fled with his family to the US from Lithuania during World War II. They lived in refugee camps in Germany for five years. When they came to Chicago, he got a job in a hardware factory because his university degree did not mean anything in America. But every morning he woke up early to work on his encyclopedias. For one encyclopedia, he had a network of 200 Lithuanians around the world who sent him their memories of their towns and villages. For another encyclopedia, he had photographers in Soviet-occupied Lithuania photograph all of the churches. He had to sell these books himself, he made no money, and he only published perhaps 3,000 copies, and nobody in Soviet-occupied Lithuania could read them. When Gorbachev allowed Lithuanians more freedom to publish books, they published 30,000 copies of that first encyclopedia and they were very popular. It was very important because people had the freedom but it takes time to write books. His books were already written and so it was the perfect time. So he was successful in that he did the work and then his day came.
Vartika Kumar	I would like to mention an example of a famous lady Indra Nooyi. Indra Nooyi, CEO Pepsi CO has scripted a success story that showcases what American dreams are made of. She has also proven that no matter who you are or where you come from, if you have a dream then all you need is the will and determination to achieve it. Belonging from a middle class family to joining the university in USA (yale university) for masters degree on scholarship. She worked in part time job and then in some company after completion of her course and her different way of thinking made her successful in life.
Vartika Kumar	I would like to mention an example of a famous lady Indra Nooyi. Indra Nooyi, CEO Pepsi CO has scripted a success story that showcases what American dreams are made of. She has also proven that no matter who you are or where you come from, if you have a dream then all you need is the will and determination to achieve it. Belonging from a middle class family to joining the university in USA (yale university) for masters degree on scholarship. She worked in part time job and then in some company after completion of her course and her different way of thinking made her successful in life.

Aidas Milius

In my opinion successful person is the one who can achieve theyr goals in his/her life.A real life example would be the person that i know who had a goal to create a family and travel around the world with them.

Rajah Rahuf

i know a man who is personally who was really very poor that they couldn't afford per day meal though his father was rich and had alot of property around sri lanka, but he wanted to stand on his own so he didnt take a single penny of his father's property (his goal was to be success and not depending) and then the situation got more worse that he couldnt even feed his children's so his wife supported him by stitching pillow cover and sell it in payment market for 10 rupees which is appox 0.13 cents, and he collected money and started a business and it was a big flop no customers nothing but still he believed in his idea of being a good entrepreneur and at last he borrowed 2 lakhs srilankan rupees which is approx 1120 euro from his elder sister for his 2nd business and he start a business finally in a small market of srilanka and that went so good that he is one of the top fashion textile business man of srilanka and repay his sister back by 2 crore just because she helped him his hard time giving him 2 lakhs .

Greta Valasinavičiūtė

I have a relative who graduated a not very good university but all the time he was having a dream to work in particular place. So he studied very hard, sacrofised a lot of time, participated in a lot of seminars, and everything what he was trying to do went very well. So now he work where he wished, he loves him job, always try to improve himself and he is very successful in that work field and also in his personal life

Give a statement that is true or false and explain how you know that it is.

Ugnė Balkutė

It may sound biblical but taking away other person's life is wrong. I do believe in this statement because of one simple reason: murderer has not given a life to the victim so he does not have a right to take it away. That sounds like true to me.

Kamilė Barauskaitė

Any kind of scientific statment, that has been approved, like: Earth is round. I know for sure, that it's true, because other people already investigated this.

Vartika Kumar

Statement: It's a bright sunny day outside. I know it's a bright sunny day outside because I could feel the spark of sun into my eyes through my window that is why it's a true statement. But if I say it's a bright sunny day because lights are falling into my room through my window this statement could be false, because it can be any source of light other than sun until we don't look out.

Aidas Milius

The knowledge what is true and what is false comes from the society that has been built by all of us in the long process. The things that we consider true or false are nearly everytime destined by the past events that we saw, heard of or even participated in. Sometimes we don't know the intentions of particular behaviour so we judge it but out of that comes the question: how can we judge a person by it's behaviour?

A true statement: My sister loves animals. I know that it's true because i use logic and proofs. My sister, even if she is just 12 years old, is always bringing home all kind of different animals, like street puppies and kitties and she is always trying to feed them.Also she wants to be a veterinary. I know this statement is true because i can see her and i can see her actions.

Isabela Lenuta Pandelea

A false statement: People are immortals. I know this statement is false again by using logic and proofs. I can see that humans can't live forever. Everyone is dying, it's the rule of the nature, hence, this statement is false.

Rajah Rahuf

a statement that is true : when it rains i go out to check if its actually raining or is it just pitter patter sound and i found it was really raining

a statement that is false : i hear the pitter patter sound out and i stay on my bed and assume that its raining out without checking my window, and it wasnt actual raining but it was the a/c water sound

Studying improve your intellect.

Greta Valasinavičiūtė

It is true, because every time you study you learn something more, then you realize that it is never enough of reading books. But people who don't study, there are a lot of people, they don't have a great intellect. I know a person who never finished the high school, and always work such job where you need to be just physically strong but no one ask you to use your intellect, such jobs are paid the minimum salaries. And he do not realize that he probably will never achieve something, but he feel save enough because he don't know much about successful people , and it is enough for him. he never read and he do not even know that he can want more, but people who are smart always trying to seek more

Please give a real life example of a person who sought something in life (or did not seeking anything) and what is the result that they got.

Ugnė Balkutė

A friend of mine who was not seeking anything for the result got pain and low self-esteem because he lost his faith in world and people and therefore he thought everything was useless. He did not managed to gain skills like being happy, enjoying life opportunities, he was just going with the flow.

Justas Jakutis

Many people seek fame in order to be recognised by others. Being famous means being rich, having a lot of well-known celebrity friends and being in the spotlight. But seeking fame is not always a good idea. I know a person who wanted to be famous by doing life threatening stunts and almost got killed, he is now paralysed and doesn't control both of his legs. This just shows that seeking fame is not always a good idea and you must know the dangers that lie ahead.

Aidas Milius

Two most common things that people seek in life are money and happiness. In my opinion those 2 things doesn't work together so a person can't have both.There is a saying that money don't give you happiness. There are a lot of situations where money breaks relationships or even families. In conclusion seeking for money leads to a bag of dollars or good cars but the real happiness comes from being loved.

Isabela Lenuta Pandelea

One of my dad's aunts is a very, very ambitious woman, All her life she never cared about anything (and anyone) else than money and success. She was always the top of her class, worked really hard to get best grades and university, then worked very hard to get a good job and good promotions at her job. Now she had fulfilled her dream and she is one of the most powerful person in my country, she has very high relations in politics and she has a lot of companies on her name. She wanted something and she got it thru hard working. She doesn't have many people that like her tho but I think she doesn't care about that, so I think she got the result she wanted.

Greta Valasinavičiūtė

I know a person who was very smart at school , read a lot of books and always got the best grades. But he lived in a small village so every day after school he had to do a lot of work in the farm. When he graduated he never tried to access to university and he stayed in the same place, never tried to achieve anything. Now he is about 50 years old , he still reads a lot and have a huge collection of books, but he work in some builders company getting a minimum salary, he doesn't have a family and live alone.

Please give a real life example of a good person you know (don't name them), what is good about them, and how you think they became good.

Ugnė Balkutė

A friend of mine, who was often seeing unfair things in life, decided to seek for the truth. She created the truth herself. She was insanely good with people, no matter theirs' attitudes or bad habits. She was good to everyone, she used to close her eyes in front of bad things and see only positive behaviours of people. Therefore, she helped anyone who had asked, anyone she thought needed this. That is why and how she became a good person

Kamilė Barauskaitė

I believe that a good person must be kind to everyone, be very caring, respectful and honest. A person becomes like that, when he has a lot of life experience, learns from their own mistakes and reads clever books.

Justas Jakutis

I know this person very well and she knows me, she is caring, always trying to help no matter what and is always honest with me. She shows kindness to all people, as the bible says "Give to those in need". She knows that It is easy to help others, because you get the same treatment back.
In my opinion, the person I am writing about became a caring and loving human by having the same role model as I have - a Mother, because every mother is a good person for their children.

Aidas Milius

To be a good person means to be honest with others. The most important thing to remain honest in nowadays world is to not wear a mask. The people that became good started from little things in life like not comparing themselves with others so there won't be envy and the competition that could cause some bad things.

Isabela Lenuta Pandelea

I think one of my old friends from middle school is a good person. She is always very positive, never judges people, she work in a lot of volunteering, always trying to do better for the world. She already was once in Africa with a programme, even if she is so young, she was not afraid, she instantly accepted to go there and try to help. She was teaching small kids in Africa villages and trying to give them a better education. Even when she got malaria while staying there, she did not got scared, she fought and survived. I believe she was always a person that cared about others, that's why she is good. But she also became more like this because she came from a poor area of my city, where i believe she saw a lot of misery that made her want to do better for the world. She is my definitions of good and i appreciate her because, to be honest, i could don't think i would ever be able to do so many things for other people and sacrifice myself so much for other like she does.

Greta Valasinavičiūtė

I have a friend who is always willing to help everyone, she is very smart and gives the best advises.She really take care when her friends are in trouble. Also she doesn't afraid of being herself and trying to make others love themselves. She not always was like that. Her parents are very strict and they always wanted her doughter to be a lawyer, but she is one of art people, she loves singing and had to go through a lot that her parents would agree with her decision to be a singer.